Aegean Paradiso Vacation Club

An adults-only retreat on the east coast of Syros, Cyclades, Greece

About

Aegean Paradiso Vacation Club is an adults-only (18+) retreat in Azolimnos, a sandy bay on the east coast of Syros. Modern Cycladic in design – clean lines, natural materials, timber pergolas and white-washed volumes – it sits 70 metres from the beach and about ten minutes from Ermoupoli, the island's capital and port.

The club has 35 rooms and suites in nine categories, from 20 m² garden-view doubles to 45 m² two-room suites. Many look out over the Aegean, and selected suites have their own private pool or outdoor jetted tub.

At its centre is a seasonal outdoor pool with a built-in hydromassage, ringed by sun beds and loungers that are free for guests, with a pool bar and lounge beside it. The club also has a restaurant, a breakfast buffet, a gym and an entertainment area.

Syros in brief

Ermoupoli, the capital of the Cyclades, is a 19th-century shipping town of marble squares and neoclassical mansions, from Miaouli Square and the Apollo Theatre – home to the Festival of the Aegean and the Animasyros festival – to the captains' mansions of Vaporia. Above it rises the medieval hill town of Ano Syros. Beyond Azolimnos, the beaches of Vari, Galissas, Kini and Agathopes are all close, and boats run to the empty north coast.
